THREE HALFPENCE

SUCCESSFUL BRITISH COUNTER-ATTACK.

THE GREAT BATTLE. BRITISH HOLDING FIRM.

FIRST DIVISION'S STROKE.

Ground Regained at Givenchy and Festubert.

GERMAN ATTACK NEAR ROBECQ FAILS.

Sir D. Haig reported yesterday as follows:—

General Headquarters, 11.40 a.m.

As the result of a successful minor enterprise carried out by us yesterday south of the Scarpe River we captured a few prisoners, 9 machine-guns, and a trench mortar.

Early in the night the enemy launched a counter-attack in this locality, and was repulsed.

During the night a successful counter-attack by the First Division threw the enemy out of points in our advanced defences around Givenchy and Festubert gained by him on April 18 at the cost of heavy losses.

All objectives were gained and the position here re-established.

Local attacks made against our positions south-east of Robecq led to sharp fighting, at the end of which the enemy were driven back.

Beyond artillery activity on both sides at different points along our front there is nothing further to report.

British Line Holds Everywhere.

Sir D. Haig reported on Friday morning as follows:—

General Headquarters, 11 a.m.

The hostile attacks reported to be in progress yesterday morning south of Kemmel were successfully repulsed, and other attacks launched by the enemy in this locality during the evening were broken up by our artillery and machine-gun fire.

With the exception of artillery activity on both sides in the battle sectors the night has passed comparatively quietly on the whole British front.

We captured a few prisoners and machine-guns as the result of minor enterprises at different points.

Regiments of different German divisions are now known to have been engaged in the unsuccessful attacks delivered by the enemy yesterday in the Givenchy—St. Venant sector.

The fighting at Givenchy, as on other parts of this front, ended in the complete repulse of the enemy who, at the end of most determined and costly assaults, was only able to secure a limited footing at one or two points in our more advanced defences.

The enemy is known to have suffered heavy casualties from our artillery fire prior to the opening of his attacks, and his losses in the course of the day's fighting were equally severe.

FRENCH OFFICIAL. ARTILLERY LIVELY.

MANY SURPRISE ATTACKS.

The French official communiqué yesterday afternoon stated:—

The enemy attempted a surprise attack in the region of Hargard En Santero. Some prisoners, including 1 officer, were left in our hands.

The activity of the artillery on both sides continues very lively between Lassingen and Noyon.

In the course of the night carried out numerous surprise attacks at different points of the enemy front, notably to the north-west and to the east of Rheims, in Champagne, in the sector of Juvin-court, and towards the heights of the Meuse. We took a certain number of prisoners.

On his side the enemy made several attempts which were all repulsed, to the west of the ute du Mesnil and in Wovre.

The night was calm everywhere else.

HUNS BET ON THE BATTLE.

Lord R. Cecil, speaking at Hitchin, said he was told that before the offensive began that German officers in neutral Courts were prepared to bet that they would succeed in dividing the forces of the Allies within a fortnight. A month had passed and they had not succeeded.

THE GERMAN THRUST STAYED.

The above map shows the scene of the week's desperate fighting. Enemy attempts to capture the heights west of Wytschaete have all been frustrated, while at Givenchy the Germans have been completely repulsed with very heavy losses.

THE BRITISH ATTACKING.

FRESH FIGHT FOR WYTSCHAETE.

(German Official.)

The turning of the tide is well evidenced in the latest German communiqué, which reports strong British attacks against Wytschaete and "fluctuating fighting" near Givenchy. It says that the last news is that the enemy were severely repulsed. Strong French attacks against Moreuil are also alluded to.

The German official communiqué on Friday was as follows:—

Whilst the British held their positions, the Flemish created held their positions between our reconnoitring detachments and Belgian and English posts developed several times.

Strong attacks launched by the enemy from the N. and N.W. against Wytschaete were also alluded to.

The German official communiqué on Friday was as follows:—

Whilst the enemy was assembling his men he suffered heavy losses under our destructive fire. Between Bailleul and La Bassée there was lively fighting activity on the part of the artillery. North-west of Béthune our infantry made a thrust against the hostile lines north of the La Bassée Canal and captured some guns.

Near Festubert and Givenchy fluctuating fighting is taking place. We have made 600 prisoners.

The increased firing activity of the past few days on the Avre was succeeded yesterday by strong deeply-ranked French attacks against Moreuil and Moreuil. On both banks of the Avre through the Sene Wood close attacking waves several times attacked in the Sene Wood. A bitter struggle the enemy was driven back suffering gory losses. Strong artillery fire continued even during the night on this fighting sector. We

(Evening Official.)

There is nothing new to report from the battle front. After their failures of Thursday, the French have not renewed their attacks north-west of Moreuil—Admiralty, per Wireless.

The New Year's Day was calm everywhere else.

With the exception of artillery activity on both sides in the battle sectors the night has passed comparatively quietly on the whole British front.

We captured a few prisoners and machine-guns as the result of minor enterprises at different points.

ITALIANS IN FRANCE.

Discharging a Debt."

The Italian Embassy has announced that Italian troops reached France several days ago.

Milan, Saturday.—The announcement made in the Chamber that Italian troops are to participate in the great battle in Flanders has been enthusiastically received throughout Italy.

The "Secolo" says—Italy could not be absent from the field whereof the destinies of the battle front against Germany were practically realised when French and British troops took their places side by side with the Italian soldiers in the line of battle lines of resistance on the Piave.

The Italian troops on their way to the battle-fields of Picardy and Flanders will tomorrow discharge the debt due to the solidarity of the Alliance.

The "Corriere Della Sera" says—The Italian will receive the news with profound satisfaction. For long past there has been a general desire that our soldiers should go to defend the interests of the side of the Allies. The Government has recognised this sentiment of the Italian nation and has quickly decided upon means of carrying the popular desire into effect.—Central News.

WHY ADVANCE HAS SLACKENED.

The war correspondent of the "Frankfurter Zeitung" writes: The Lybian battlefield has been so successful following the swift success of the opening that the slower progress of the battle has been marked by marked differences. The enemy resistance is increasing, and use is being made of the heights on the line Neuve Eglise-Baillie-Straelen to impede our further advance against Hazebrouck by an outflanking movement. Moreover, the extensive Nieppe Forest, with a width of over 10 miles, is an obstacle in front of us whilst the British are in the direction of Poperinge.

THE COMING CALL-UP.

EXEMPTED MEN TO JOIN THE VOLUNTEERS.

The new Man-Power Bill is now law. The measure was finally carried in the Commons by a majority of 198, the Government sticking to the proposal to exempt conscripts from military service, but withdrawing the clause relating to minister of religion serving. When the Bill reached the Lords Lord Peel, on moving the second reading, said it was proposed first to call men up to and including 45. They would be medically examined, and if not exempted drafted into the Army. The Government had been asked to make an exemption for the older men, but the lines of Backs to the Wall.

Sir Douglas Haig's late Army Order, general appeal to all ranks of his service, and the well-marked slogan about it, and would well have pleased Shakespeare who put into the mouth of Henry V. some of the most stirring words ever addressed to soldiers to "do or die"—the motto of the fighting Douglases. The true commander is wise to be sparing in the use of words—a maxim which stamps the Kaiser as the most foolish of braggarts, but which should never be spoken, as it would be pitiful and to the point. Thus considered, nothing could have been finer or more appropriate than Haig's Army Order, concluding:—"There is no other course open to us but to fight it out. Every position must be held to the last man; there must be no retirement. With our backs to the wall and believing in the justice of our cause, each one must fight on to the end." In speaking thus our valiant Field-Marshal was but suddenly whistled his clansmen out of their concealment in the heather (as described in "The Lady of the Lake"), so as to impress "Fitz-James" with a sense of his overwhelming power:

"Come one, come all! this rock shall fly From my base as soon as I."

As at Corunna.

It is when forced into this "back-to-the-wall" attitude that the soldier adapts an iron Macbeth when at last cornered by his avenging pursuers—that the British soldier is ever at his best and bravest. It was the attitude assumed by Sir John Moore's immortal "ten thousand" when at last they got to Corunna, on the Bay of Biscay, and faced round to fight and repulse their Napoleonic pursuers. When a man is confronted with overwhelming odds, he very much prefers whether a wall or water is at his back, for in either case his line of retreat is barred. I do not like to try and imagine even what would be likely, or even possible, if our armies—yielding to the pressure of overwhelming hordes of Huns—were to be pressed back on the Channel ports with their backs to the sea. This is a subject of possible phase of the war which I have never conjectured, but of conjecture; but I know from the reading of military history that our soldiers have never borne themselves with a more desperate bravery than when placed in a tight corner.

Moral of Marathon.

When in 1801 Sir Ralph Abercromby's little army of 12,000 landed in the face of heavy fire at Aboukir, near Alexandria, to complete Nelson's great victory of "the Nile" by disposing of the French force which JIMMY WILDE TELLS WHAT TO DO FOR FOOT TORTURES.

World's Champion Boxer says simply rest in saturated water, then bid corse and other remedies good-bye.

Jimmy Wilde should do:

what boxers do when their feet ache, burn, perspire, form corns, callouses, blisters, and other woes make life miserable for anyone who has to be on his feet constantly.

Boxers have to do what everyone else does: that is, rest the feet for a while in saturated and oxygenated water, prepared by dissolving a handfull of ordinary refined Rennet in salt water (obtainable at small cost from any chemist) in a foot bath of plain hot water. I have known of serious cases where users hardly recognized either the feel or the appearance of their own feet the first time they treated them this way, and I am never without a supply of the salt-salts compound at my training camp.

SOME PERILS OF VENEREAL DISEASE.

This announcement is issued by the National Council for Combating Venereal Diseases, a responsible body recognised by the Government. President, Rt. Hon. Lord Sydenham, Vice-President, The Bishop of Southwark, Sir Thomas Lethbridge, Bart., K.C.V.O., M.D., President of Executive, Sir McLean, K.C.V.O., F.R.C.S.E.

NO. 3—THE FOLLY OF SELF-DRUGGING.

Those who try to treat themselves for Syphilis or Gonorrhoea may find the disease drag on for years and years, and grave complications, perhaps threatening life itself, will almost certainly ensue. So great is the danger that the Government has passed a law suppressing quack treatment.

These two terrible diseases are among the most difficult of all to cure, and can only be satisfactorily treated by the highest medical skill.

If they are treated at once the patient stands an excellent chance of a complete cure. If treatment is delayed the sufferer may become a wreck for life. Every hour is precious. Days lost in self-drugging may be paid for in years of suffering.

FREE TREATMENT.

Free treatment, under conditions of secrecy, is provided by the Government in most centres. All who are infected or who have taken a risk of infection, should immediately go to a doctor, or apply at the dispensaries, department of the nearest hospital, or to the local Medical Officer of Health.

Further notes will appear next Sunday in this paper.

Those who are in any doubt or difficulty should write in confide to the Medical Secretary, N.C.C.V.D. 81, Avenue Chambers, Southwark, S.E. 1, London. W.C. 1, for free literature or advice.—[Advt.]

WILLAGE WAR MEMORIALS.

After the war a great many would be returning to the villages who could not go back to their old homes, and the very best form of war memorial which could provide would be cottages with really good-sized gardens.

This was a suggestion made by Mr. F. A. Alderson, of the National League and Home League meeting at the Central Hall, Westminster.

It is to be deeply regretted that owing to the continued illness of Mr. Edward Compton the season, which had been a success, will not be able to open again, and the very best form of war memorial which could provide would be cottages with really good-sized gardens.

For years past his dramatic seasons, both in the provinces and in London, have been looked forward to with great interest by the public, and the smaller places where there has not been a brilliant future in front of him.

I learn that the late Sir George Alexander, the great English comic actor, has made his appearance at the Aeolian Hall on Thursday last. He has been studying with M. DYSPEPSICS GET RELIEF OR MONEY BACK.
A REMARKABLE REMEDY.

The contention that over 50 per cent of flat-stomach troubles are either directly or indirectly due to acidity or food fermentation, seems to be amply proven by the uniformly instant relief experienced by sufferers from Indigestion and dyspepsis, who have used the tablets of pure Balsamated Magnesia, in a little water immediately after eating. Many dyspeptics, however, have tried so many high-toned remedies, that they have begun to think nothing can help them. It is therefore a matter of pleasant surprise to these people to learn that the remarkable Balsamated Magnesia is accompanied by a binding guarantee to return the purchase price if it fails to give complete satisfaction—proof positive of its confidence. This Balsamated Magnesia, which is entirely obtainable of any chemist, and costs but 3/- for a large bottle, is the most remarkable remedy ever known for dyspepsia, indigestion, acidity, flatulence, and stomach trouble generally.
